Psychological Aspects of the Memory of the Holocaust

Professor Hadas Wiseman

17 8045A01 – 2021/2022

Time: Semester A 2021/2, Sunday 16:15-17:45. Location: Class or ZOOM (Moodle)

Course Type: Class; Course level: MA

Instructor: Professor Hadas Wiseman. E-mail: hadasw@edu.haifa.ac.il

Cell: 052-8525536 / +972-528525536.

Office Hours: by appointment. Web site: Moodle system.

Pre-Requisites (recommended but not mandatory): (1) Undergraduate course in research methods in social sciences and qualitative research; (2) Undergraduate course – Introduction to Psychology, Developmental Psychology.

Course Overview:

In this course we will focus on the study of the long-term psychological effects of the Holocaust on the survivors and their families (the 'second' and 'third' generations). Topics: Intergenerational transmission of the Holocaust trauma, intergenerational familial communication about the Holocaust, remembering and memory of the Holocaust across the generations, interpersonal relationship patterns in survivor families, vulnerability and resilience, coping patterns, the trip to Poland, Righteous Among the Nations, and generations of the Holocaust in Germany.

Students in the course will conduct an interview with Survivors or survivors' children or Grandchildren. All the students will conduct at least one interview and transcribe the interview. Working with this interview will provide the basis for completing the major class assignment that will vary according to the 3 types: Final course paper (based on one interview) or seminar paper (based on at least two interviews) will focus on a research question and relevant resources (see details in course requirements). Response paper will include a short PPT presentation in class of the interview.

Supervision for the interviews and for the short presentation or final course or seminar paper will be provided.

At the end of the course students will be able to: [Learning Outcomes]

1. Understand the complex and heterogeneous research literature on the long-term psychological effects of the Holocaust and intergenerational effects of the Holocaust while considering developmental-emotional processes of vulnerability and resilience.
2. Experience first-hand conducting an interview with a survivor/ second /third generation of the Holocaust, supervised by the course instructor and conducting a thematic analysis of the interview(s).
3. Apply the tools they learned in the course in a response paper (PPT) or in a topic of their interest for writing a final course paper or seminar paper.

Course requirements and Grading:

Readings for each class and active participation (5%). Re: Attendance - in the case of missing a class, please notify me by e-mail ahead of time, or when not possible inform me after the fact. In case of zoom-All students are expected to open their video on zoom and to participate in breakout rooms. On occasions that this is not possible please inform me.

Response Notes (10%) in pairs. Submitting 2 Response Notes: 1 Response Note on Article of your choice and 1 Response Note to Video.

For the Article - choose from the List of Readings that appear in the Course outline in which you will write your reactions/reflections and critique and submit them on Moodle for the week in which they are listed in the Table. Length for article response note: About 200 to max 300 words.

For the Video - Choose to write a Response Note to one of the Videos on Moodle during the course. For video about 100 words to max 150.

Interview Assignment (25%): Conducting a personal interview with a survivor/second/third generation. You will receive an interview outline and supervision for conducting the interview. Transcribing the interview. Interviews can be conducted via Zoom or face-to-face.

Three Types of Assignments:

Response Paper - brief class presentation (60%). For students who choose the response paper option –presenting in class a PPT with an analysis of parts of the interview that you conducted is mandatory; for other class members if we will have time– optional.

OR:

Final course paper or Seminar Paper (60%). Each student will choose a research question to focus on for the final paper in consultation with me. The interview will provide the basis for the paper - combining the interview material and a focused literature review and critique of the chosen topic. For the final course paper based on the interview that you conducted during the course, up to 10 pages (excluding the References and Appendix). For the Seminar paper, additional interview material is required - total of 2 or 3 interviews, depending on the topic and the research question, 20 to 25 pages (excluding the References and Appendix).

All students will submit the transcribed interview – those writing a response paper before the presentation in class; and those writing final paper or seminar in the Appendix of the paper.

Deadlines dates for submission: Response paper – during the course; Final course paper – March 31, 2022. Seminar paper – June 16, 2022. These are subject to change according the program's requirements.

Best wishes for an interesting and meaningful course!
